About BAMtheatre: BAM was established in 2001 to create opportunities for youth to receive professional musical theatre training and education. BAM teaches performance and love of theatre in a fun, energetic and engaging manner. BAM offers outstanding educational theatre programming year round, involving over 600 students from ages 3 - 22. Our students are passionate about the study of performance, and many go on to study theatre and music and leading educational institutions including NYU, Northwestern, Boston Conservatory, and others. For every BAM program, rehearsals serve as opportunities for student discovery and will incorporate a wealth of knowledge beyond the script.

BAM's Educational Philosophy: BAM offers a rich curriculum that is suited to beginning, intermediate, and advanced students of musical theatre. BAM is an educational youth theatre organization. While many community organizations offer opportunities for students to perform, BAM is unique in the education and training it provides its students. The emphasis in every program is on the rehearsal process instead of the final product, and students are given opportunities to study with leading musical theatre teaching artists from all over the country.

The core values of BAM include Focus, Energy, Enthusiasm, and Joy. Not only are these empowering values, but they resonate well within the environment and culture of BAMtheatre. If students bring focus into the rehearsal process, engage in the process with maximum energy, are enthusiastic about their continued study of the arts, then the primary outcome is joy. These are values that can be transferred into any facet of life - on or off the stage. BAM is a positive and collaborative environment that involves the whole student, allowing them to freely develop into the expressive and joyful beings they are!
